SERVICES HELD AT THE CHURCHES THIS MORNING

Interesting Thanksgiving Sermons at Downtown Edifices.

Day is Being Quietly Observed Here.

EVERYTHING IS CLOSED UP.

Thanksgiving this morning, which is a quiet holiday in Paducah. The shops and banks are closed all day, as are some retail stores. The other retail stores closed at noon. The postoffice is observing holiday hours.

This morning services were held at the Broadway Methodist church, where the Rev. G. W. Banks preached; at Grace church, where the Rev. D. C. Wright preached; at the First Baptist, where the Rev. G. B. Smalley preached; at St. Francis de Sales with one mass; the East and Twelfth Street Baptist churches and the Christian Science rooms in the Three Links building.

Tonight services will be held at the German Evangelical, German Lutheran and Cumberland Presbyterian churches. This afternoon services will be held at the Mechanicsburg Methodist church.

At Grace Church.
Dr. D. C. Wright, who preached at Grace church this morning, took his text from Matt. xv, 24. His subject was, "How Many Leaves Have Ye, or God's Prodigality and Economy."

Dr. Wright said in general that while Providence is always liberal even to seeming prodigality, there is never any waste. This is apparent in nature. A great tree springs up and attains immense proportions; but it would not have been possible for that tree to attain its full development were it not for the smaller vegetation that has sprung up and died and gone to enrich the soil at its roots. A Washington is produced when needed, but that Washington runs up in his character the heroic qualities of thousands of lesser Washingtons that preceded him and died unused. The person was an exposition of the necessity for everyone to perform his part in the economy of Providence.

At the First Baptist.
The Rev. G. B. Smalley, pastor of the Second Baptist church, preached at the union service at the First Baptist church this morning. His text was II Cor. xii, 15.

He said in part:
"Gratitude is always indicative of greatness in respect to notions or individuals. 'Blessed is that nation whose God is the Lord,' has been verified in the history of the American people. No fact in the history of the human family is more pathetic than the ingratitude shown by the 'chosen people'—that people that was the most tenderly nursed and most bountifully blessed by our gracious Heavenly Father.

"Our appreciation for the gifts both temporal and spiritual can be proven in no better manner than to gladly serve God, the giver of all blessings. The spirit of sacrifice was pre-eminent in the life of Christ. His truest followers have been truly thankful for the smallest blessings, and have not failed to impress the world that they were by their self-sacrificing lives. Such was the life of Paul, who said to his Corinthian brethren, 'I will very gladly spend and be spent for you.'"

Dr. Banks' Sermon.
At the Broadway Methodist church this morning the Rev. G. W. Banks, pastor of Fountain Avenue Methodist church, said in part:

"Thanksgiving day is a time when all the people of the great republic are called upon for an expression of gratitude to Almighty God for his merciful blessings upon the children of men. We are reminded by the proclamation of such a day that we are dependent upon an All Father for blessings both temporal and spiritual. The day is announced on the broadest basis of religious liberty not even in the name of Christ, but in the name of Almighty God, so that both Jew and Gentile can meet together in this service and give expression to the native religious instinct that lives and breathes in the bosom of each. No grace in human life is of higher value than that of gratitude. Gratitude and the want of it marks the dividing line between the gentleman and the ruffian.

"To use the multitudinous blessings from God without the warmth of gratitude is to put oneself among the baser sort. On the other hand, to carry in our bosoms the feeling of gratefulness is to take a place among the refined and cultured. The highest order of gratefulness is that that looks up to God, the author of all

Mine at Cherry Again Sealed Up, Because Fire Breaks Out Anew, and It May Not be Reopened for Week

More Than 150 Bodies Were Found Which the Rescuers Could Not Bring to the Surface.

Cherry, Ill., Nov. 25.—The St. Paul mine was sealed early this morning. The fire was gaining such headway that it was thought best to cut off all air in the shaft. The mine will probably remain sealed several weeks.

After more than 150 bodies were discovered in the St. Paul mine, efforts to carry them to the surface were temporarily abandoned while a battle began to check the fire which again started in the main shaft.

If the efforts to control the fire are not successful, early tomorrow the mine will probably again be sealed and remain so for weeks, if not months.

Today the flames from the fire in the second vein, 210 feet below the surface, had spread 50 feet up the main shaft. Then the fire was forced back. Manager Taylor declared that the destruction of the main shaft is at all times imminent and with it the only possibility of removing the bodies. That no men survive in the mine now is conceded even by the most optimistic miners.

The only part of the mine unexplored, and in which living men may possibly be found, is the east working of the second vein at the entrance of which the fire is burning fiercely. Twice rescuing parties ventured past the fire area, were temporarily cut off by the flames and rescued with difficulty. No further attempt to venture into it will be made until the fire is extinguished. That no living man is confined behind the fire, or in any other portion of the mine, was the stated conviction of all experts here.

Trying to Escape Gases.
It is believed the fans were reversed too soon to permit the men to make provisions for safety. No barricade was erected against gases. They made crude fans of pickhandles and boards torn from the wall. They fastened them to the wall and took turns revolving by hand in an effort to drive out the black damp. One man was found dead with his hand still clasping the fan. Dead bodies were in a heap. It easily was seen that when some died the living ones piled their bodies and climbed on top, trying to escape the gases.

Want More Protection.
Springfield, Ill., Nov. 25.—As a result of the Cherry mine fire Governor Hines may incorporate in his call for a special session of the legislature in December a recommendation for the amendment of the mining laws to require fire proof shafts to be built in all mines of concrete and steel, instead of timber, and the removal of all stables from under ground.

The governor today told a delegation of officers of the State Federation of Labor, and of the United Mine Workers that he would submit their demands for the greater safety of mines to the newly appointed state mining commission. He added that if the committee could formulate specific amendments to the mining laws, that would be desirable, he would incorporate the recommendations in his call for a special session.

PRESBYTERIANS' PASTOR COMING

THE REV. H. W. BURRELL WILL ARRIVE ABOUT DECEMBER 15.

Although the congregation of the Napoleon Avenue Presbyterian, New Orleans, has not yet acted on the resignation of the Rev. H. W. Burrell, who was called to the pastorate of the First Presbyterian church, this city, it is believed the congregation will unite with him before the Presbytery, so that he may be released to accept this call. Dr. Burrell himself, has already indicated his desire to come. Work of repairing the manse of the First church is progressing, and it is now almost certain that Dr. Burrell and his family will arrive about December 15.

Thanksgiving Thieves.
Thanksgiving thieves, doubtless with a turkey in their mind, entered the boarding house of R. R. Sutherland, Tenh and Jackson streets, yesterday afternoon and stole a carving set, consisting of a knife, fork and steel, and a clock and silk fan. There is no clue.

8500 AN ACRE.
On one-fifth of an acre Mr. Edmonds, the well known produce dealer, raised $100 worth of turnips. It is quite a record, although he does not claim to have the largest turnips, he says he has the record for profit. The small garden was sowed in turnips, and during the summer Mr. Edmonds sold $63 worth of turnips in bunches to grocers. Now he has secured 42 bushels of turnips from the patch and valued at $12. Mr. Edmonds realized $70 from the one-fifth of an acre of ground, while he says had he sold the turnips at retail he would have made at least $100.

SUB-CONTRACTS WILL BE LET TO LOCAL PARTIES

Sidewalks will be let to Paducah dealers and as far as possible home labor will be favored by A. J. Miller & Son, of Lynchburg, Va., who secured the contract. This Mr. Miller assured the dealers yesterday afternoon before he left for Lynchburg. The sub-contracts will amount to many thousands of dollars and will give several months' work.

Active work will not start until spring as it is too late in the season to begin such a large contract, and residents would bowl should the present sidewalks be torn up and left in a muddy condition until spring. When spring arrives Mr. Miller intends to rush the work to completion.

TOBACCO RUSHING INTO THIS MARKET

DELIVERIES ARE CROWDING CLOSE TO MILLION MARK TO DATE.

Nearly a million pounds of tobacco have been delivered in Paducah the last two weeks, and Mayfield has received fully a million, according to good judges. Mayfield is an early market. The American Snuff company so far has received the bulk of the contract deliveries; but all are buying freely and the price remains firm. The farmers are pleased with the price. It is expected that the rush will continue until the Christmas holidays if the weather remains favorable.

COUNTY JAILER WILL GO IN HOTEL BUSINESS

County Jailer James Baker has leased the New Richmond hotel, and will take charge of the hostelry next Saturday morning. He succeeds Capt. G. F. Phillips, who has operated the hotel for about two years. The term of Mr. Baker as county jailer will expire January 1. No doubt he will make a success of his venture.

TAG DAY NETTED $203 TO THE CHARITY CLUB.

Tag Day netted the Charity club $203 yesterday and the ladies were very much pleased with the liberal buying of tags. The station at the Fraternity building, in charge of Mrs. Eliza Lack and Mrs. Duane, headed the collection. This morning the club made a donation to the poor of the city with a part of yesterday's receipts. The remainder will be held for carrying on the good work this winter. No dinners were sent out today but the club intends supplying the poor with nice baskets of food for Christmas.

CONTRACTOR FILLING IN WEST END BASIN.

Contractor George Welkel will resume work on the big sewer connecting the culverts between Jefferson street and Broadway just back of Mountain avenue. Half of the work has been completed, but the entire sewer will not be ready for the ground to be filled in until next spring. The sewer on completion will be one of the largest in this section and the filling up of the property will give a most desirable residence site. Several lots have already been filled in.

ENGLISH LORDS GIVEN WARNING IN ABLE SPEECH

Rosebery Discusses George's Budget Before the British Peers.

Better Let the Nation Taste It.

SITUATION IS MOST DELICATE

London, Nov. 25.—Lord Rosebery former Liberal prime minister, in one of his finest speeches warned the house of lords that they are running grave risks if they rejected the budget.

"I am dissociated from any party and speak from a sense of the awful gravity of the situation. This is the greatest political moment in the lifetime of anybody born since 1832."

Previous to this year, Rosebery said the lords had practical control of the house of commons, but since then it was not possible that the commons should enact a budget which the house of lords should reject. He considered that the only possible circumstances justifying the lords in exercising such domain power would be the direct authority of the nation itself. Such circumstances might arise if a budget were presented which lowered the country's defenses to a point which the nation considered dangerous.

The peers were playing for too heavy a stake and risking the very existence of the house of lords.

The winning policy, continued the speaker, would be to pass the budget give the country six months experience of its intolerable impositions, loss of capital and employment. They would then achieve an election victory that would surprise themselves.

Rosebery added: "The house of lords has lived on menaces ever since I can remember and is still thriving. But the menaces now are used by men bent on having a single chamber. Their efforts are revolutionary in essence, if not in fact."

Rosebery, who has long advocated the reform of the house of lords, declared that no final adjustment of the differences between the house will ever be obtained without some form of referendum. Denouncing the budget strongly Rosebery said that the one maxim burned into the country by bitter experience, was that there should be no legislation without representation.

"Disregard for that maxim," he said "lost us the United States, and we are not likely to offend against it again."

He contended that the budget taxes the lords freely without their having a vote in the matter. He warned the country that the pressure of great armaments was eating out the heart and hurrying Europe towards bankruptcy.

It is impossible to judge the effect of Rosebery's warning, but it is known that a considerable number of Unionist peers doubt the expediency of rejecting the budget and many will not vote.

The commons will adjourn tomorrow until Wednesday when Premier Asquith will explain the policy of the government in view of the anticipated rejection of the budget.

NO DECISION GIVEN IN LONE OAK SCHOOL

No decision was given in the mandamus suit of Greenville Harrison against W. R. Davis, of the fourth educational division school board, to force him to sign a contract for her to teach in the consolidated school.

Part of the evidence was heard yesterday afternoon, and R. C. Potter was directed to bring in the minutes of the division board so that a number of dates may be found out.

FUNERAL OF MISS LOUISE COMBS TODAY

The funeral of Miss Mary Louise Combs took place this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of her aunt, Miss Elizabeth Singleton, 323 North Fifth street. The Rev. G. T. Sullivan officiated, while the burial was in Oak Grove cemetery. The pallbearers were: Charles Kopf, E. W. Whittemore, Dr. H. M. Childers, Will Hennesberger, Thomas Hoffman and Robert Brown.

Will Haffey's Funeral.
The funeral of Will Haffey, the ex-freeman, who died at Covington, will be held Friday or Sunday. Captain John Slaughter, of the Central fire station, has raised $60 of a fund of $75 necessary to bring the body back to Paducah for burial, which was the last wish of Haffey. A telegram to ship the body was sent today.

President Confers With Friends About Forthcoming Message and Many Other Important Questions

White Slave Traffic as Related to Immigration, Interstate Commerce, New Mexican Governorship.

Washington, Nov. 25.—President Taft devoted yesterday afternoon to conference covering the amendment of the interstate commerce laws, legislation for the suppression of the "white slave" traffic, appointment of a successor to the late Judge Ithaca of the federal court of Chicago, and the appointment of a governor for New Mexico.

It was said that the president is practically ready now to dictate a portion of his message to congress, covering the interstate law amendments. There were present at this conference, Attorney General Wickersham, Chairman Knapp, Commissioner Lane, District Attorney Sims, of Illinois, chairman of the house committee on foreign commerce.

With the latter two the president also took up the "white slave" question. Mann is to introduce a bill on this subject at the coming session of congress. He believes the government can prevent the traffic through its power of control of interstate and foreign commerce. Mann believes the government is the only authority strong enough to cope with this evil. His bill provides a heavy penalty for the enticement of a woman or a girl from one place to another for immoral purposes and thereby cause her to go as a passenger over any transportation line engaged in interstate or foreign commerce.

"Investigations in Chicago and elsewhere," said Mann, "have disclosed the startling extent of the traffic in girls, both within the United States and from France and other countries. Most of the American girls are enticed from country homes. The police power exercised by state and municipal governments is inadequate to prevent this, particularly when girls are enticed from one state to another or from a foreign country."

Sims, himself, has been recommended for the federal bench to succeed Judge Bechen, but no decision on this vacancy has been announced.

Taft's views on amendments to the interstate commerce law is generally known since his Des Moines speech September 20. The conference was for the purpose of working out the details of the amendments. It is proposed to establish an interstate commerce court of five members to consider appeals from rates fixed by the commission. The president also recommends legislation to prevent one interstate railroad from owning stock in a competing line and the competing road thus owning stock to dispose of their holdings. Legislation preventing the over issue of stocks and bonds and watering stocks will be one of the strongest recommendations Taft will make. The president's proposition being that no stocks or bonds be issued except by permission of the interstate commerce commission.

"Seize Come Leben" Warrant.
Ed Elliott was arrested early this morning by Patrolmen Dalton and Gilliam on a "seize come leben" warrant. His arrest winds up a gang against all of whom bench warrants have been served.

GUARDING FRANKFORT JAIL

Beaver Dam, Ky., Nov. 25. (Special.)—Estill Guffy died late yesterday of injuries received in the runaway accident.

Association Sued.
Elkton, Ky., Nov. 25. (Special.)—Suits were filed in circuit court by Iren S. Street against the Dark Tobacco association for $2,616.95. John D. Scales, treasurer of the bank of Guthrie, and the Farmers' and Merchants' bank of Guthrie, association depositors, are also defendants. An attachment is asked of the funds. The court is asked to appoint a receiver. The suit grows out of the 1907 pool.

Guarding the Jail.

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 25.—A number of special deputies and the police are guarding the Frankfort jail, where Pearl Merchant, aged 35, arrested in Cincinnati some days ago on the charge of having detained an 8-year-old girl of Frankfort, is imprisoned. A great crowd met Merchant when he was brought here by deputy sheriffs last night, and though they followed him through the streets a demonstration was attempted. Four brothers of Merchant are in the guard.

Congratulated by President.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 25.—Chief of Police Lindsay today received a card from President Taft hearing congratulations on his recent appointment as chief of police. Maj. Lindsay served in the regular army in the Philippines and while there came under the observation of the president, then the governor-general.

Bear Trap Catches Thief.

Mayfield, Ky., Nov. 25.—T. L. Stoval, a well known merchant of the city, is the inventor of a unique method of capturing burglars who have been entering his kitchen numbers of times recently and stealing flour from the barrel. He set a bear trap in the flour barrel and captured a big burly negro named John Spann. He implicated two others and the gang of thieves who have been entering houses for two weeks, it is thought, has been broken up, which is due to the Stoval bear trap.

Want Special Judge Chosen.

Mayfield, Ky., Nov. 25.—The lawyers of the Mayfield bar have recommended that Governor Wilson appoint R. E. Johnston as special judge to finish out the present term of circuit court. Judge R. J. Bugg was forced to go to his home in Bardwell on account of ill health.

Damaged Suit Dismissed.

Owensboro, Ky., Nov. 25.—Before adjourning court here Tuesday afternoon Judge Evans settled several big damage suits from various sections of western Kentucky, the last one settled being a night rider suit from Muhlenberg county, in which Tobias Golts, a negro, asked for $20,000. The action was dismissed. Golts proved, and the various defendants admitted, that they had a daylight meeting in a county school house, and sent a committee of six to notify Golts that he must force John Lear to leave his farm. Lear had shielded a brother from arrest after the latter had attempted a criminal assault on the daughter of one of the defendants, according to the defense. Golts got scared and moved to Spencer county, Indiana, where he now resides. Lear also sued the same parties for a like amount, but his suit was dismissed with his own consent.

Dies of Heart Disease.

Morganfield, Ky., Nov. 25.—There is much sorrow in Union county by the sudden death, from heart trouble, of Mrs. Thomas B. Young, one of the best loved women in Morganfield. She is survived by her husband, T. B. Young, and three sons, Robert, T. B. Young, Sr., and Ode H. Young, of Henderson, and two daughters, Mrs. Charles Skillman, of Cloverport, and Miss Eva Young.

LABORERS WILL GET THEIR MONEYCOMPTROLLER OF TREASURY
MAKES RULING.North Platte River Irrigation Proj.
Just Trouble Is Settled
at Last.

RULING WILL AFFECT OTHERS.

Washington, Nov. 25.—People who have contributed labor or material towards the completion of the North Platte reclamation project and have not yet been paid will get their money, according to a decision rendered by the comptroller of the treasury. In view of the fact that similar conditions to those existing in the North Platte valley apply also in other localities, this decision is of considerable importance in the western states.

Persons who wanted to secure water rights after the government work was completed on the North Platte project banded themselves together in an association called the North Platte Valley Users' association. This organization entered into a contract with the United States representatives by which it guaranteed the payment by its members of charges assessed against their lands for water rights and also promised to furnish labor and material for the prosecution of the work. The association issued to its members who furnished this labor and material certificates to the amount of $32,775, of which $12,320 has been accepted by the engineer in charge as payments upon water rights. Then early in December the attorney general rendered an opinion that the contract between the government and the association was void and unenforced.

As there are now outstanding in the hands of private holders certificates to the amount of $2,453, and as they represent work and material actually furnished to the reclamation service, the secretary of the interior asked the comptroller, in view of the attorney general's opinion, how he could discharge the obligations, saying that there was now in the reclamation treasury enough money to pay in cash.

The comptroller, in his decision, says that payments should be made to the persons who actually did the work and that the mere fact that a person may hold a certificate gives no right to the payment to him of the amount stated on its face. "The certificates," he said, "were intended to be sufficient evidence that the holder had to perform the service, or had paid someone else to perform it, or had paid the original holder of such certificates its value. Where the certificates do not show on their face that they have been assigned they would be prime facie evidence that the holder performed the service or paid someone else to perform it for him. The holder of an unassigned certificate should therefore be presumed to have performed the service and the presentation of this certificate would be sufficient evidence of this fact and would entitle him to payment. Where the certificates appear to have been assigned the holder by assignment would not be entitled to payment. In such cases the payment, if any, should be made to the person to whom the certificate was originally issued.

"No duty devolves upon the reclamation service to see that the association makes any payments to any person who performed work or holds certificates. It is the duty of the service to pay the person who performed the service, or procured its performance, regardless of who is now the holder of the certificates issued, and leave the parties to work out their equities and legal rights among themselves."

News of Theatres

A Southern play by a Southern author, and presented by a Southern actress—such is "My Dixie Girl," to be seen here today, matinee and night. The star, Pearl Evans Lewis, is a native of New Orleans, and was known as the youngest leading lady on the American stage, having barely reached the age of sixteen when she was engaged by Alton Vailair, to star in that popular success "My Island Prince," and with whom she remained for five consecutive seasons.

The Heart of an Indian.

This western drama will be presented by one of Belcher-Wright Attractions at Paducah, November 27. The play contains all that makes western dramas famous, love and pathos, intermingled with wit and humor.

"The Merry Widow," will be heard at the Kentucky theater, matinee and night, Saturday, December 4.

The fame of "The Merry Widow," at present the musical sensation of the entire world, has preceded it to this city. When Henry W. Savage's everywhere-talked-about production of this Viennese operetta comes here it will receive a peculiarly warm welcome, as there will be many in the audience who have, no doubt, seen the piece both in New York and Europe and have been singing its praises continually.

FISHES CLAIM SUIT OF 1875.

Adelbert College Asks $300,000 and Huge Interest From Wabash.

Toledo, Nov. 25.—A new angle in litigation, rivaling the case of Jarn-dyce vs. Jarn-dyce, was submitted to the common pleas court here on an application by a representative of Adelbert college of Cleveland and numerous other claimants for personal judgment against the Wabash railroad and its predecessor, the Toledo and Wabash railroad. The case has been in the court since 1881. These claims, originally aggregating $300,000, but now amounting to half a dozen times that much with interest since 1875, are based on the same issue of old equipment bonds as the claim of the estate of James Compton, upon which the United States circuit court of appeals recently gave final decrees for approximately $900,000.

Early Christmas Shopping.

Far-seeing persons are already engaged in Christmas shopping or are planning to begin at once. They intend to go about it deliberately. They are not going to buy because they feel they must provide presents of some kind or character. They intend to take their time in order to select something particularly appropriate for the person to be remembered. It is a much greater compliment to receive a present that has been selected with deliberation. One does not like to think that in the last hour somebody rushed through the stores to find something or another that would "do," and finally in despair grabbed an article and rushed away home or to the postoffice or express office with it. A good deal of the comfortable spirit of the latter-day Christmas season may be avoided by early shopping.

From the standpoint of comfort it is well worth while to buy early. To struggle with difficulty through a crowd to reach a counter may put one in a mood not consistent with the Christmas season. Then, the clocks are to be considered as well as one's own personal convenience. With Christmas buying distributed over a few weeks instead of a few days it is more satisfactory all around.—Tacoma Ledger.

A Canadian Bishop.

The queen of Denmark once paid a visit to the Danish colony of Iceland, where the good old bishop exerted himself to the utmost to show her everything that was worth seeing. The queen paid many compliments to her host, and having learned that he was a fairly man graciously inquired how many children he had.

It happens that the Danish word for children is almost identical in sound with the Icelandic word for sheep, says The Bits, and the worthy bishop promptly answered, "Two hundred." "Two hundred children!" cried the queen. "How can you possibly maintain such an number?"

"Easily enough, please your majesty," replied the prelate with a cheerful smile. "In the summer I turn them out upon the hill to grass and when the winter comes I kill and eat them."

He has also a large orchard and will have a considerable amount of fruit for the market next year. He is also stocking the place with good hogs.

Dr. Atterbury has proven a most successful cotton planter, but is now convinced that the time has come for diversification, and while he will not abandon the production of cotton altogether, his purpose is to produce on the plantation all the meat and bread and feedstuffs needed to run the place and then raise all the cotton possible on the remainder of the acreage.

NEW LOCOMOTIVE MAY MARK EPOCH

SCOTCH ENGINEER TELLS OF TURBINE-ELECTRIC

Inventor Says It Will Prove Worth and Be Adopted by the World's Railways.

MAKES ITS OWN CURRENT

London, Nov. 25.—President Hugh Reid, of the Glasgow University Engineering society, has announced that a new locomotive is under construction which may lead to the turbine system, which revolutionized steam propulsion on the Atlantic, being applied to the railway engines of the world.

Reid describes this engine as the first steam-turbine-electric locomotive. Various proposals have been made to electrify the existing steam railways, but the anticipated cost of conversion and of the prospective subsequent maintenance have prevented progress.

Attempts have been made to introduce independent, self-generating electric units that might operate over existing railway systems without necessitating any electrical equipment on the railways themselves. The Hellmann steam-electric locomotive, which was built in 1894, was the most notable of these attempts, but Reid declares that the new steam-turbine-electric locomotive, now being built by the North British Locomotive company, is of much more practical development.

Steamed Up Like Ordinary Engine.

The steam is generated in a boiler of the ordinary locomotive type, superheated steam from the boiler is led to a turbine of impulse type, running at a speed of 3,000 revolutions a minute, to which is coupled directly a continuous current, variable voltage dynamo or generator. The dynamo supplies electrical energy of from 200 to 600 volts to four series of traction motors, the armatures of which are built on the four main or driving axles of the locomotive.

The exhaust steam from the turbine passes into an ejector condenser and, together with the circulating condensing water, is delivered eventually to a hot well. As the steam turbine is unlike a reciprocating steam engine in that it requires no internal lubrication, the water of condensation is free from oil and consequently is returned by means of a feed pump. The water evaporated by the boiler therefore is returned to the boiler again and again and the supply of water carried in the tanks is actually circulating water for condensation purposes.

This condensing water is circulated within a practically closed cycle by means of small centrifugal pumps driven by auxiliary steam turbines placed alongside the main turbine and dynamo.

Engine Built of Years of Study. Reid declares the idea is the outcome of much thought and experiment over a period of several years and is being carried out on a large scale. As the engine under construction is intended for express and passenger work, Reid hopes to obtain from its actual working comparisons with the performances of reciprocating steam locomotives, especially as regards the relative consumption of fuel and water, and also as to the efficiency of transforming the energy of steam into the drawbar or train pull, and also the relative rapidity of acceleration under the old and new systems.

The component parts of this steam-turbine-electric locomotive already have proved themselves effective and efficient in other applications and the novelty lies in the combination of the different elements of which the locomotive is composed. The expected results in this case should not, therefore, Reid believes, be so problematical as in an invention where the novelty is in the details.

An Apt Answer.

In a Pennsylvania town where the friends abound a prim old Quaker spinster recently attended the marriage of her grandnephew, a young person who had in the course of his 21 years received much needed discipline at her hands.

The old lady was at her best on this festive occasion and, at a panic in the wedding breakfast, the happy groom looked over at her with a beguiling smile.

"Tell us why thee never married, Aunt Pritience?" he said, teasingly.

"That is soon told, William," said the old Quakeress, calmly. "It was because I was not as easily pleased as thy wife was."—Circle Magazine.

Daily Thought.

"It is just as easy and infinitely better to cultivate the cheerful, thankful spirit. Gratitude should be the habit of every life. To look on the bright side, to carry sunshine in the heart and reflect it in speech and conduct is to enjoy life and make it a blessing to the world."

THANKSGIVING.

In the first place, Thanksgiving marks us as a God-fearing nation. You, who are proud to trace your ancestry back to those hardy pilgrims who landed on the bleak Atlantic coast in mid-winter and began that heroic struggle against the primal forces of nature in the wilderness of a strange continent, remember that the first thing they did was to fall down upon the cold, barren ground and thank God for preserving them for the fight.

They did not have occasion to thank God; because he had given them comforts and luxuries, shelter from the wind, pleasant homes with coal and servants to carry it in; plenty to eat, soft raiment to wear, money in the bank and an elegant church in which to worship Him. They thanked God for preserving them for the fight. Nowadays it is common for a man to ask why God has spared him for a struggle that seems unequal and hopeless, and to give the life back to his creator, like the unprofitable servant. The poorest creature that walks the earth in this happy land of ours is better off in this world's goods than those half frozen, more than half-starved immigrants, who stepped ashore through the pounding, cruel wintry surf at Plymouth rock, and thanked God for preserving them for the fight.

You are proud of those men; they were fighters. Can't you honor them by being fighters, too, and thanking God for preserving you for the chance to fight? You will never face as unequal struggle as they faced. If they had been men of a weaker mold, they would have cursed God and asked him why he spared them for that.

But they didn't. They gave thanks because they were preserved for the fight. If you have comforts and pleasures, be duly grateful for them. But if you have anything to overcome within or without, that is your cause for thankfulness, that you may prove a worthy son of a race that thanks God for opportunity to establish its right to the name of man and the image of God, not for the unearned increment of ancestral heroism.

THE THEORY, THE LAW AND SOCIETY.

Senator Herman Newcomb will offer in the next legislature a bill, substituting the electric chair for the gallows in executing condemned criminals, and changing the place of execution from the county, in which the crime was committed, to the penitentiary at Frankfort. If his bill passes Kentucky will take one more step from the direction of the barbarous past toward the humane future.

Time was when the theory of criminal law was retributive in its nature. Society advanced and law reform followed at a distance. The theory was changed to protection of society and the discouragement of crime. Again society advanced and the law finds itself behind. Public sentiment today suggests, not only protecting society, but reforming the criminal and transforming him from an enemy of the law and order into a contributing member of society.

Today there is much discussion of the efficiency and morality of capital punishment. In the days of the Patriarchs the head of the family had the power of life or death over the individuals. That theory has come down to us in a modified form, society retaining the power of life or death, and each member holding an interest in the law, on the one hand, as part of society and on the other, as an individual with exclusive, personal rights and obligations. This power of society is based upon the belief that the rights of society as a whole are superior to the rights of the individual, and the controversy over the question of capital punishment is concerned solely with opinions as to whether society will be properly protected, if the death penalty is abolished.

It seems that, if society would abolish the extreme penalty and still be safe from abuse by individuals, it must cease its own abuses of individuals, who are born under a handicap and never have a chance to make good. It is a notorious fact, that those of the higher walks of life, who commit murder under the least provocation are found guilty of manslaughter or acquitted, and the embittered creatures of an unenlightened order, stretch all the hemp from the gallows of the United States. In the meantime, it is becoming more and more difficult to secure a verdict, warranting capital punishment, excepting where a jury is possessed of the mob spirit.

Hangings have taken place in the counties, where the crimes were committed, on the theory that the execution is an object lesson to the community. In France today the executions are public for the same reason, giving the reductive and absurdum to our theory. We issue a limited number of tickets, thus adding heart-burning jealousy of the morbidly curious to the disgust of the normal minded portion of the populace.

We don't hang men any more on the theory that the community requires a warning. Tyrants do that. Being members of the community ourselves, we are justified in assuming that we enforce capital punishment for our protection, not for our edification or instruction. Consequently, the less brutalizing familiarity we have with the spectacle, the better it is for the mind, especially of the young. Experience has taught the human race that abuse, threats and horrible examples only harden the natures intended to be benefited. Society is beginning to turn from the unpleasant business of harvesting weeds, to the more profitable business of trying to make something else grow in the place of weeds.

Until we reach that state of civilization, wherein society recognizes its obligation to the individual as much as the individual's obligation to society, let us, by all means make a hideous thing as little hideous as possible, and execute condemned men at Frankfort.

STATE PRESS.

Does it Pay?

The Times presents for the information of the people the state and the consideration of the members of the general assembly a conservatively drawn picture of the physical conditions at the Frankfort penitentiary. These conditions make inevitably for diseased bodies among a population every member of which is the victim of diseased mental and moral fiber. And sight cannot be lost of the fact that that population is essentially a floating population, arrested, it is true, for the time being, but only for a time. The average length of the time spent in the Frankfort penitentiary is one and nine-tenths years. Two out of every three of the men the state shuts in there for that brief time in the life of a man are illiterate; one out of every two has no knowledge of a trade by which to earn a living honestly; one in every thirteen is the victim of tuberculosis; in Cell-house A, 744 out of the 1,300 of them are engaged in cells three and a half feet wide, six and a half feet high and seven feet in length; the Kentucky of 1909 is no further advanced in the treatment of its prisoners than was the Kentucky of 1890.

Kentucky puts convicted criminals into her state's prison at Frankfort and then does all that is humanly possible to see that none but the confirmed criminal comes out. The wonder is not that 75 per cent. of the men who leave the Frankfort penitentiary leave it to prey on the state, but that the state escapes the menace of the other 25 per cent.

Kentucky is getting out of its prisons just what it is putting into them—criminals, but criminals of a more dangerous quality and a virtually unlesened quantity. Does it pay? Louisville Times.

A Matrimonial Seidlitz Powder.

At an important state function in London, blue tickets were issued to persons of high rank, admitting them to that part of the hall reserved for members of the royal family. Less distinguished guests were given white tickets. Through some mistake, an important public man received a blue card while his wife received a white one.

When the couple reached the audience chamber, there began to be trouble, inasmuch as the lady firmly declined to be separated from her husband. An aide endeavored to reason with her, pointing out the dreadful consequences that would follow a mingling of blue and white.

"How absurd!" exclaimed the lady. "What do you take us for—a Seidlitz powder?" She was permitted to enter with her husband.—Everybody's Magazine.

good. We come together today as a Christian or God-fearing nation and again pledge our belief in and faith to one supreme and divine God-head. We thus recount our favors, such as national prosperity. Our people in the main have enjoyed a year of peace and quiet. No great battles have been fought except such as are common to men within the circle of their own lives. Blood has not flowed and men have not groined under national oppression.

"Our soil, under nature's sunshine and showers, has produced the usual good harvest of golden fruit and grain. Our wives and little ones have had their usual comforts, presents and toys. Our exports have far exceeded our imports. We have sent abroad more than we have had to bring in. Our grain product has outstripped the balance of the world and our own Indian corn has led in the grain harvest of the world.

"All the world looks to our cotton fields and wool flocks for fabric and our meats are found in the most remote markets of the world.

"Our radicals are threatening our continent in a perfect web so that the tropical forests are gathered one day on the great Gulf and served the next morning for breakfast on the lakes. Our schools and colleges are full with our bright boys and girls and we are heading toward great things in literature and art. Our churches are enjoying a marvelous era of prosperity. They are filled with eager worshippers for Sunday to Sunday. More people are attending Sunday school than ever before in the history of our nation. The 'dark evil' has been greatly curtailed within the past 12 months. Prices of labor have been greatly advanced. This whole nation should stand up and sing 'Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow'."

LIFE PRESERVER WAS READY FOR INSTANT USE.

The crew of the steamer "Lark" was on a morning study on Paducah when Charles Whittemore, of the local police force, Mr. Whittemore took a day off and went down the river on the boat Monday to hunt. At will be remembered a high wind blowing made steamboating somewhat treacherous that day. About noon as the "Lark" approached Grand Chain the wind became more furious and the boat began to sway. Fearing that his boat was near at hand, it is said that Patrolman Whittemore grabbed up a life preserver and attempting to about him locked himself to his platform awaiting the "demon." When the wind died down he came out and discarded the life preserver but somewhat nervous, as the tale goes.

Gregory-Robinson Wedding and Reception.

A wedding most beautiful in its picturesque setting and charm of detail was that of Miss Lillian Gregory and Mr. Maury Robinson, of Charleston, West Virginia, last evening at 8:30 o'clock at the First Christian church. A large and brilliant assemblage of guests witnessed the ceremony.

The wedding colors green and white were effectively carried out in the decoration of the church, which was the artistic work of Schmaus, the florist. The altar was banked with palms and the giant white chrysanthemums were used everywhere possible. The background was a curtain of the smilax vines, ferns and white chrysanthemums. Tall chrysanthemums on either side of the altar lights and the choir rail was screened by palms and vines. The giant chrysanthemums were placed at the end of every pew and made a lovely aisle for the bridal procession to pass down.

Miss Adah Brazelton was at the organ and rendered a beautiful musical program preceding the ceremony, which included the "Prelude" to Lohengrin. Mr. Albert Bracklin, of Dyersburg, Tenn., sang with impressive "If I Had a Thousand Lives to Live," by Solman. He was accompanied by his sister, Mrs. John Atkins, of Dyersburg, who is a musical artist.

The bridal party entered the church to the Lohengrin march. The ushers advanced first down the center aisle. Each bridesmaid came singly down the center aisle and was met at the altar steps by a groomsmen, who advanced from the right, and the couple ascending into the altar formed a picturesque semi-circle facing the bride and bridegroom. The bridal procession was: Mr. Robert Wallace and Mr. John Miller, Jr.; Mr. Warren Sights and Dr. L. H. Howell; Miss Louise Robinson and Mr. Fletcher Irvine, both of Charleston, West Virginia; Miss Allie Baker, of St. Louis, and Mr. Stewart Sinnott, of Paducah; Miss Elodie Bradshaw, of Paducah, and Mr. Denver Cornett, of Frankfort; Miss Mary Hood, of Minneapolis, and Mr. Emmett O'Neal, of Louisville; Miss Elize Dandridge, of Frankfort, and Mr. Wilfred Adams of Charleston; Miss Virginia King, of Dyersburg, and Mr. John Carver, of Charleston. Miss Rebecca Read, of Fort Smith, Arkansas, the maid of honor, was followed by little Gregory Salter, of Danville, the ring-bearer. Miss Gregory entered with her father, Mr. Oscar L. Gregory, who gave her away. Mr. Robinson with his brother, Mr. Carol Robinson, of Charleston, met them at the altar steps. The beautiful ceremony of the Episcopal church was impressively pronounced by the Rev. David Cady Wright, rector of Grace church. The recessional was the Mendelssohn wedding march.

The bride, who is a beautiful girl of great charm of personality, was radiantly lovely in her exquisite wedding dress of white satin and rose polka with pearls. The bride veil was becomingly arranged with a band of pearls. She wore the bridegroom's gift, a beautiful pendant of pearls and topaz. Her bridal bouquet was white sweet peas and lilies-of-the-valley.

The maid of honor was charmingly gowned in green crepe trimmed in silver lace and green jeweled net. She carried white roses. The bridesmaids wore artistic frocks of green crepe and silver passementerie. They carried picture muffs of smilax and white sweet peas with huge bows of green chiffon. Wreaths of green leaves and white roses were effectively worn in the hair.

The little ring-bearer was a charming figure in white. He carried the ring in a "dainty basket" of crystal held with silver and ornamented with a bow of tulle and lilies-of-the-valley.

A reception at the Gregory home, on North Eighth street, from 9 until 11 o'clock followed the ceremony. The house was beautifully decorated with palms, southern smilax and the white Japanese chrysanthemums. Smilax was twined about the stairway and the chandeliers. The banquet table was banked with palms and the chrysanthemums were effectively placed about the rooms.

In the reception hall the guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. George C. Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. John Keller, Miss Adine Morton and Dr. J. Q. Taylor. The wedding-hoop in the hall was kept by Mr. Warren Sights and Miss Lillian Robinson.

In the drawing-room receiving with Mr. and Mrs. Gregory, in addition to the bride party, were: Mr. and Mrs. Ned Robinson, of Charleston, West Virginia, the parents of the bridegroom; Mrs. Dunn, of Macon, Ga., the grandmother of the bride; Mrs. O. W. Hicks, of Macon; Mrs. Hufus Scott, of Paris, Texas; Mrs. W. H. Salter, of Danville; Miss Velda King, of Dyersburg; Mr. Albert Bracklin, of Dyersburg.

In the dining-room the wedding colors, green and white, were artistically elaborated. The picture table was one of exceptional beauty. It was circular and veiled in handsome damask. In the center was an immense crystal bowl of specimen white chrysanthemums that almost met the chandeliers. The bowl stood on a centerpiece of white Chinese embroidery. The plumosa fern outlined the table. The chandelier above the table was entwined with white tulle and the plumosa fern, top of which extended to the table and was caught by white chrysanthemums. The bride's cake was a thing of beauty. A large box-knot was laid in the center, surrounded by calla lilies and green leaves. Tiny doves made an effective border. Crystal compotes held green and white mints. The salted nuts were in cut glass dishes. The white tea was in the form of "Hilken," the god of good luck, and were a charming innovation. The individual cakes were laid in green. The tea, cake and the bride's cake were from Huetzel, in Louisville. The sideboard, buffet and mantel were banked with ferns and chrysanthemums and lighted by silver candelabra with green candles. Mr. and Mrs. Calhoun Hoke welcomed the guests at the dining room door. Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Wilcox, Mr. and Mrs. James P. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Bradshaw, Jr., Miss Elizabeth Sinnott and Mr. Wallace Well did the honors of the dining room.

In the side hall leading from the dining room Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Humphrey, Miss Lillian Humphrey and Mr. and Mrs. Will Hughes received. In the library Mr. and Mrs. James

OWES HER LIFE TO

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Vienna, W. Va.—"I feel that I owe the last ten years of my life to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Eleven years ago I was a walking shadow. I had been under the doctor's care but got no relief. My husband persuaded me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it worked like a charm. It relieved all my pains and cured from almost every form of female complaint, inflammation, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration. Every such suffering woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

Interback greeted the guests. Miss Helen Lowry presided at the punch bowl and was assisted by Miss Edith Langstaff and Mr. Louis Hoke, Jr. Miss Huchee Hills and Mr. E. J. Daxton, Miss Philippa Hughes and Mr. Dick Price, of Charleston. In the room opening from the library was a beautiful and varied display of the wedding gifts, which made a gorgeous showing. A handsome chest of that silver was a gift from the father of the bride.

The bride's gifts to her maids were pretty half-crescent pins of dull gold set with pearls. The bridegroom gave his groomsmen and ushers gold scarf pins in the form of horseshoes.

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson left at 1:50 o'clock for their home in Columbus, Ohio, where Mr. Robinson has recently located. The bride's going-away gown was a stylish coat suit of storm serge in the burnt almond shade with hat to harmonize.

A number of striking and beautiful evening toilettes worn by the guests added to the brilliancy of the scene.

Mrs. Gregory was especially handsome in white chiffon cloth trimmed in gold beaded lace. Mrs. Dunn wore a reception costume of silver grey silk and lace. Mrs. Hicks was charming in white moire and lace. Mrs. Rufus Scott wore a striking gown of gold brocade. Mrs. Nell Robinson was in grey messaline combined with "lustrous old lace. Mrs. John W. Keller, who has just returned from a six months' stay in Europe, wore an imported gown of yellow satin and gold embroidered hands.

smilax, and in the parlor where the ceremony was performed large pink chrysanthemums and palms were used. The bride party entered to the Mendelssohn march. Mr. Pettit and his best man, Mr. John Brooks, came first and were followed by the bride and her matron of honor, her sister, Mrs. John Brooks. The ceremony was performed before a long mirror decorated in pink chrysanthemums and smilax and banked on either side with palms and cut flowers. The Rev. H. H. Taylor, officiated, using the ring ceremony.

The bride wore a handsome tailored suit of electric blue diagonal cloth with hat and accessories to harmonize and carried a shower bouquet of blue violets. The matron of honor was gowned in a cloth dress of rose color and wore a white beaver picture hat and carried pink chrysanthemums.

ANTI-CORNER RULE LOSSES.
Chicago Board of Trade Is Strong Against It.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—The "anti-corner" amendment to the rules of the board of trade was defeated at a special ballot today by a vote of 49 to 353. The proposed rule provided that in case of a squeeze or corner in any commodity, a committee would determine the value of that commodity on final delivery day.

S.S.S. THE REMEDY FOR SORES AND ULCERS

There is but one way to cure an old sore or chronic ulcer, and that is to remove the cause that produces and keeps it open. No matter where located, any sore that remains until it becomes chronic does so because of impure blood; the circulation constantly discharges its polluted matter into the place and it is impossible for nature to heal the sore. S.S.S. heals sores and ulcers by purifying the blood. It removes every trace of impurity from the circulation, and thus completely does away with the cause. No local application reaches below the infected flesh at the spot, and for this reason can have no curative effect on a sore or ulcer, while such treatment is being used alone, the germs and impurities are constantly increasing in the blood and the sore is bound to grow worse. When S.S.S. has cleansed the blood and enriched and purified the circulation the place begins to take on a more healthy appearance, the different symptoms show improvement, the flesh around the ulcer gets firm, new skin and tissues are formed, and aided by pure, rich blood, nature provides a perfect and lasting cure. Under the tonic and blood-purifying effects of S.S.S., the system is built up, and those whose health has been impaired by the drain and worry of an old sore will be greatly benefited by its use. HOMES ARE IN BARREN ROCKS.

Five hundred feet above the troubled surface of Bering Sea, which dashes itself to spray on the bare rock wall far below them, lives a race of real cliff dwellers, writes the Nome correspondent of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer. How long these strange people have been nestled in the caverns of Kings Island no one pretends to know. But they are there today, living in much the same way as anthropologists say our ancestors lived some time in the long ago after they had given up roosting in trees.

Kings Island, like the Diomedes and other islands in Bering Sea and Bering Strait, is of limestone formation with what the geologist calls granitic intrusions. This peculiar formation is favorable to the formation of caves, and Kings Island is honey-combed with caves and grottoes. One great cave is over 260 feet in height.

The Eskimos who inhabit these caves and whose descendants still clamber up and down the precipitous ledges have added to the ancient cliff dwellings of a more remote period a newer type of dwelling. In winter they creep back into the rock chambers that are greasy with the memory of much blubber and many big feasts in the days that were. But in summer the Kings Islander abandons his ancestral home and fixes up a home that is a thousand times more puzzling to the traveler than is the simple abode of a real cave man. Great poles are fixed in the rocks, and on these is built a boxlike affair, which is then covered with walrus skin. These walrus skin cabins look for all the world like coffins suspended on poles, but when the summer tourist approaches them he finds that every one is full of lively Eskimos with snuffy pups and venerable dogs scrambling out to give voice to a strange greeting.

Kings Island is the flat top of some sunken mountain. Its sides rise quite perpendicularly from the water to a height of over a thousand feet. All round its four miles of shore line there is not a square yard of beach, and only a few feet away the water is fifty fathoms deep. Owing to the fact that the region about Bering Strait is almost always stormy, it is nearly always quite impossible for white men to land on this island. The native by long practice has learned how to land his big skin "oomiak" and to launch it even when the bravest white man would fear to approach the rocky shore. In launching their big canoes several men get in and then canoe and all are thrown upon the surf as a wave is ebbing.

Although Kings Island is a barren rock with practically no vegetation, the hundred or so natives who live there do not starve. In fact, it is just possible that the average white family is not much better off in the way of eating when taste is left out of the question, than are these belated cliff dwellers on Kings Island. The sea around them abounds in walrus, and when the ice pack begins moving through Bering Strait great herds of walrus may be heard through the long sunlit night bellowing like wild cattle. To an Eskimo a walrus is just plain meat, and from the time the first sonorous roar of the great sea monsters come over the ice until the last ton of blubber is stored in the great cave no one sleeps on Kings Island. Sometimes sixty walrus have been killed out of one herd by these daring sea hunters. The ivory from these creatures runs into many hundreds of dollars.

These cave people who live just below the arctic circle are also great whalers, and there is seldom a year goes by that some of these levellers of the deep do not feel the savage thrust of the cliff dwellers' harpoons. With walrus and whale meat galore and hundreds of seals and thousands of Bering Sea tomcod, the Kings Islander manages to live fairly well.

Probably the finest ivory carriage boards in the world come from Kings Island. Not only in the carving on these carriage boards remarkably well done, but the drawings of nearly all the animals of the sea which adorn the surfaces are exquisitely done and make the boards very attractive to white purchasers.

Couldn't Interest Him.

Heard at the retail men's big dinner: Two commercial travelers went on a pleasure trip in an open boat, and both being poor seamen, lost their oars. After drifting out of sight of land and becoming exhausted, one went to sleep and the other remained on watch. Suddenly the lookout cried: "Wake up, I see a sail." Never mind, said his sleepy companion, "I left my samples on shore." —Boston Record.

Welcome Words To Women.

If you are an intelligent thinking woman, in need of relief from weakness, nervousness, pain and suffering, then it means much to you that there is one tried and true honest square-deal medicine OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, sold by druggists for the cure of woman's ills. The makers of

for the cure of weak, nervous, run-down, over-worked, debilitated, pain-racked women, knowing this medicine to be made up of ingredients, every one of which has the strongest possible endorsement of the leading and standard authorities of the several schools of practice, are perfectly willing, and in fact, are only too glad to print, as they do, the formula, or list of ingredients, of which it is composed, in plain English, on every bottle-wrapper. Is this not a significant fact worthy of careful consideration?

Women use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription in preference to all other advertised medicines sold by druggists for their peculiar weaknesses and ailments because it is

THE ONE REMEDY which contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs, is not anything like advertised secret compounds or patent medicines.

THE ONE REMEDY for women devised by a regularly graduated physician of vast experience in woman's ailments and carefully adapted to her delicate organism.

THE ONE REMEDY good enough that its makers are not afraid to print its every ingredient on its outside bottle-wrapper.

It's foolish—often dangerous to be over-persuaded into accepting a secret nostrum in place of this time-proven medicine of KNOWN COMPOSITION. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

Speedy Seal Has Been Lost.

Berlin, Nov. 25.—The Imperial Bank of Germany holds $200,000 deposited by Abdul Hamid before he was deposed from the sultanate of Turkey, and which, according to the Frankfurter Zeitung, the present sultan proposed to recover. The bank is willing to surrender the money if the order therefor bears the signature of the former sultan authenticated by the special seal he used when the deposit was made. The bank's agreement was that no withdrawal would be permitted except upon the authority of the special seal. The royal prisoner, complying with the request of the new Turkish authorities, signed an order on the bank for the money, but averred that the seal was lost.

A Cowardly Egg.

A campaign orator was delivering a flood of frenzied eloquence the other evening and departed for a moment from the text of his discourse.

"Yes," he said, "the opposite political party was out in force and at every attempt of the speaker to make himself heard he was met with jeers, catcalls, boos and hisses, which drowned his voice."

"When I arose to speak some one hurled a base, cowardly egg at me, which struck me in the chest." An auditor here interrupted to demand what kind of an egg it "base, cowardly egg" might be.

"Why," answered the storyteller, "a cowardly egg is one of that kind of eggs that hits you and then runs." —Philadelphia Times.

SAGE FOR DARKENING THE HAIR.

There is nothing now about the idea of using sage for restoring the color of the hair. Our great grandmothers kept their locks soft, dark and glossy by using a "sage tea." Whenever their hair fell out or took on a dull, faded or streaked appearance, they made a brew of sage leaves and applied it to their hair with wonderfully beneficial effect. Nowadays we don't have to resort to the old-time, tiresome method of gathering the herbs and minkling the brew. This is done by skillful chemists better than we could do it ourselves, and all we have to do is call for the ready made product, Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, containing sage in the proper strength, with the addition of Sulphur, another old-time scalp remedy. This preparation is sold by all first-class druggists for 50c and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price. For sale and recommended by W. J. Gilbert.

TRAP DOOR SET IN SKULL AS PREVENTIVE OF EPILEPSY.

St. Louis, Nov. 25.—In an effort to restore the power of speech to Monroe Fritz, a laborer, and to prevent his suffering epileptic fits, surgeons at the city hospital cut a trap door in his skull and relieved a depression of the bone on the brain. When Fritz was taken to the hospital November 3, suffering from malaria, he was speechless. He remained in this state for two weeks, and then began to speak with difficulty. When the surgeons learned he had been struck on the head with a billiard cue several months previous his skull was examined and the depression was found. The trephining operation was performed, and the doctors are confident the patient will regain his speech. The operation was similar to the one performed on Patrolman Thomas F. Cuddehe, whose sanity the doctors hope to restore.

PRESIDENT TAFT SIFTS STATUTES

STUDIES LAWS ON TRUSTS AND INTERSTATE COMMERCE.

Attorney General Wickersham Confers With Chief at the White House.

PREPARING FOR HIS MESSAGE

Washington, Nov. 25.—Interstate commerce and anti-trust law amendments in connection with the legislative program for the coming session of congress occupied a portion of President Taft's attention. Attorney General Wickersham and other officials interested in the prospective legislation were at the white house, and are understood to have taken with them tentative drafts of measures which will be considered preparatory to the writing of the president's annual message.

Representative Mann, of Chicago, chairman of the committee on interstate and foreign commerce, who was asked by the president last summer to come to Washington in advance of the assembling of congress for conference with respect to legislation to be dealt with by his committee, also saw the president. There was no formal discussion of the subject in question, but a conference was fixed for Wednesday, in which, it is understood, the attorney general, Secretary of Commerce and Labor, and Chairman Knapp, of the Interstate commerce commission, also will participate.

At that time matters are likely to assume a definite form.

Information came out concerning the principal amendments which the interstate commerce commission desires to make to existing laws, and it is believed there is general agreement between the propositions outlined by the commission and those formulated by the attorney general, following the summer conferences at Beverly and in New York City, and more recently here in Washington. Amendments to section 15 of the interstate commerce act are desired, which, in substance, provide as follows:

1. Power for the commission to make orders as to future rates based upon its own inquiries, without complaint having been filed.
2. Power to control and change classifications of freight used as a basis for rates.
3. Power to suspend the going rate effect of a proposed rate until a trial can be had.
4. Power to compel carriers to unite in establishing through routes and through rates regardless of existing rates.

Two of the most important amendments to which the attention of congress will be directed are those making it the duty of railroads on application of shippers to furnish in writing rates as requested—making it a misdemeanor to refuse or to furnish a wrong rate—and, in the second instance, making it possible to permit a shipper to route his freight as he may desire.

Another important amendment proposed to punish as a misdemeanor, by fine and imprisonment, the making of fictitious or excessive claims for damages by shippers against a railroad. It is declared that this process of obtaining excessive damages easily may be utilized as a means of securing rebates, and it is believed that it is resorted to at present to a considerable extent.

Members of the Interstate commerce commission, and probably the administration officials who have been detailed to give particular attention to the framing of legislation, are most desirous of having the present interstate commerce law amended so as to provide for a separate offense for each shipment of property, when it comes to the granting of rebates. The decision of Judge Grosup to the effect that the offense in rebating must be judged on each settlement between the carrier and the shipper, instead of each shipment of goods made, has caused the demand for an amendment that will give the government greater leverage in discouraging the obnoxious practice.

There already is every indication that the proposition for a commerce court will be among the most earnestly debated questions and cause the hardest fighting of any of the issues likely to be brought to the fore in connection with changing the interstate commerce organization. Attorney General Wickersham, in his recent address at Kansas City, said that originally he had been opposed to the scheme of a commerce court, but that after full consideration, he had been converted to the idea.

Progressives in the middle west have voiced lurking suspicions as to the proposed court, and now it appears there is likely to be opposition in quarters more closely connected with the majority organization forces in congress. Objection is being made to the creation of new special courts on general principles, it being pointed out that recently a customs court has been provided for and that now the idea is to have a commerce court, a special criminal court, a special bankruptcy court, and so on ad infinitum, until everything in the court line has been specialized.

Chairman Mann, of the house com-

NOW ON STRIKE. Millions of Stomachs Refuse to Do Their Work Promptly.

All over this broad land millions of stomach owners are being held in humiliating subjection just because they are so stubborn that they will not accept a fair, square and broad minded offer.

Life is short for all of us; it will be shorter for those who let their stomachs go from bad to worse.

W. J. Gilbert's drug store has a famous prescription called Mil-o-na and he believes so thoroughly in its remarkable curative power that he says to every owner of a distressed stomach that he will guarantee Mil-o-na tablets to cure acute or chronic indigestion and all stomach ailments or money back, and the price is only 50 cents a box.

And still there are stubborn people right in Paducah who won't accept this offer but continue to suffer from gas on stomach, belching of sour food, stomach pains, foul breath, dizziness, biliousness and headaches just because—just because—that's all, there is no other reason.

Mil-o-na tablets stop dyspeptic agony in five minutes; they cure obstinate cases of indigestion and turn the old stomach into a new one in a few weeks—or money back.

Interstate and foreign commerce, seems likely to be a bear on the commerce court proposition. If there is to be legislation for such a court, it is learned Mr. Mann will ask sponsors for the scheme to provide in the measure upon which congress is to act that the court be established at Omaha or some place in that territory, with a view to having it close to the country's center of commerce, the argument being that such a tribunal might as well sit in Nova Scotia as here in the District of Columbia, when most of the cases with which the court would have to deal arise in remote sections.

EPILEPSY CURED.

To Whom It May Concern:—I will say my wife had epilepsy or fits for thirteen years. I secured one bottle of Hays' Specific. She had from two to three fits a day. She has no more fits. I would not take ten times the cost of the medicine and be without it.

BRAVE MEN WERE CANNON AND GRACE, SAYS MESSAGE.

Yelaya Admired Them and Tried to Enlist Them—Then He Offered Reward.

Galveston, Texas, Nov. 25.—"With you my heart bleeds for the loss of your son, opposing oppression and fighting for liberty he nobly gave his life." This message was cabled by Estrada to the mother of Leonard Grace, living near here. A message had been sent to Estrada, asking particulars of the execution of Cannon and Grace. A message from A. B. Thornway, who is in Central America, says Yelaya admired the bravery of the two men and tried repeatedly by messages to get them to enlist. Failing he offered $25,000 for the capture of either. When Grace was found in consultation with the leader of Estrada, he was enraged, says the message, and ordered him shot.

A NATURALIST'S WONDERLAND.

The day after we landed we boarded the train to take what seems to me, as I think it would to most men fond of natural history, the most interesting railway journey in the world. It was Gov. Johnson's special train, and in addition to his own party and ours there was only Selous; and we traveled with the utmost comfort through a naturalist's wonderland. All civilized governments are now realizing that it is their duty here and there to preserve unharmed tracts of wild nature, with thereon the wild things the destruction of which means the destruction of half the charm of wild nature. The English government has made a large game reserve of much of the region on the way to Nairobi, stretching far to the south, and one mile to the north of the track. The reserve swarms with game; it would be of little value except as a reserve; and the attraction it now offers to travelers renders it an asset of real consequence to the whole colony.

On our train the locomotive was fitted with a comfortable seat across the cowcatcher, and on this, except at meal time, I spent most of the hours of daylight, usually in company with Selous, and often with Gov. Jackson, to whom the territory and the game were alike familiar. The first afternoon we did not see many wild animals, but birds abounded, and the scenery was both beautiful and interesting. A black and white hornbill, feeding on the track, rose so late that we nearly caught it with our hands; guinea fowl and francolin Ought you to accept it without knowing all about the Company? Your usual business confidence is based on knowledge. Why make an exception in that part of your business which deals with insurance? A name is worth nothing on any kind of a promise to pay unless it is backed by character and resources.

We favor insurance knowledge, particularly about our companies. Their promises to pay have never gone to protect. Their obligations to its policy holders are backed with such a good reputation and such ample financial resources that the more you know about them the more you will want protection by their policies.

and occasionally bustard rose near by; brilliant rollers, sunbirds, bee eaters and weaver birds flew beside us or sat unmoved among the trees as the train passed. In the dusk we nearly ran over a hyena. A year or two previously the train actually did run over a hyena one night, and the conductor brought in her head in triumph. In fact, there have been continually mishaps such as could only happen in the wilderness. From "African Game Trails" by Theodore Roosevelt, in the October Scribner.

She Was Observed.
An inspector one day visited a country school taught by a young lady, and in the course of the lesson said:
"Now, children, I wish you to take notice of what I do, and then write an account of it."
Then he stepped to the blackboard and wrote a sentence upon it.
All the children except one wrote in effect that the "master" came into the school and wrote on the blackboard, "I love a good school."
One little girl, however, followed instructions more literally and completed the story by adding:
"And then he went to the platform, sat down, played with his watch chain, twirled his mustache, and winked at the lady teacher."—Tit-Bits.

McQUOWN BOOMED

FOR GOVERNMENTAL NOMINATION BY DEMOCRATS.

Former Party Chairman Put Forward as Likely Candidate by His Friends.

SOME VERY PECULIAR MIX-UPS.

Howling Green, Ky., Nov. 25.—The meeting of a number of Democratic politicians in Louisville Monday night to lay plans to be pursued in the organization of the coming general assembly, which meeting is said to have been presided over by Col. John Whallen, has aroused the country Democrats of this section of the state to a realization of the efforts of what they are pleased to term the Whallen-Johnson-Frowitt combine to direct legislation and manage things for the party.

The feeling engendered by the publication of the "inside" of the Louisville conference resulted in some general discussion as to who will be an available candidate to explode these efforts of a few men to dominate and direct the Democrats of the state. Among the first and most prominent names to be suggested was that of Judge Lewis McQuown, who, though practicing his profession at the state capital yet, takes a keen interest in affairs in the county of Warren and the Third congressional district.

No man in southern Kentucky enjoys the confidence of the people of this section to a fuller degree than does Judge McQuown. The greater part of his life has been spent in this county and in Warren county, and he has stood at the head of the bar here for years. Never a candidate for political honors, preferring the simple life, Judge McQuown has always been prominent as a party advisor. His first came into state prominence in a political way during the Garfield campaign in 1899, and after his services in the contest before the general assembly of that year for the governorship he was called to the head of party affairs, being made chairman of the state central and executive committees of the Democracy. During several years' service in that capacity he rendered impartial service, being the ally of no particular faction of the party, and his decisions always being sustained. He found the duties of the chairmanship arduous, and readily laid them down when the opportunity presented.

Located at Frankfort.
Judge McQuown is now located at Frankfort, where he is engaged in the legal practice before the court of appeals. He does not seek to become governor of Kentucky, and the suggestion of his name, made here without his knowledge. It was the outgrowth of a feeling that the Democratic party is in need of such a Democrat to save it from the guiding hand of Col. Whallen and the out-thrust state politicians who are meeting with him in Louisville and seeking to direct nominations from governor down the line, and to lead the Democratic legislators, like sheep, in support of their candidates for presiding officers of the two bodies and for legislation which Col. Whallen may deem best to be enacted during the coming session.

House Speakership.

The publication to the effect that George S. Wilson, of Union county, has been decided upon for the post of speaker of the house was not surprising to Democrats here who have been onto the plans of Frowitt and Whallen. It was a surprise, however, to young Mr. Scholberth and young Mr. Shanks, of Woodford and Lincoln counties, respectively. They have canvassed this section of the state thoroughly for votes for the speakership, and had confided to friends here that they thought they were running for the office. Also that they had been led to believe by what they supposed were the "powers" that their candidacy was favored if they could only keep the other fellows fooled for the time being.

The matter of taking up with Judge Lewis McQuown the entering of his name in the race for governor will be discussed with him by three leading Democrats of Warren and Harlan, who will go to Frankfort next week.

HORSE DROWNED

H. F. HAMMACK AND BEN SMITH BARELY ESCAPE.

Team and Hack Plunge into Muddy Waters of a Swollen Stream.

Mayfield, Ky., Nov. 25.—H. F. Hammack, of Marlen, traveling salesman for an Evansville hardware house, and Ben Smith, driver for Willlett's stable of Mayfield, had a harrowing escape from being drowned Monday afternoon near Hackburg following the heavy rain on that day. They were driving two horses to a light drummer's hack and were unable to cross a creek. A farmer realizing their predicament agreed to pilot them through his field, where the stream was navigable. All went well and they had crossed the water and started up the embankment when one of the horses balked, causing the vehicle to roll back into the water. The team fell and sank in the deep water and the hack was capsized, throwing the baggage out. One of the horses was rescued by hard and faithful work while the other animal could not be extricated from the swift and muddy waters and was drowned. The hack was saved except a grip was lost.

containing two fine gold watches and other valuable articles, which was swept away by the waters. Messrs. Hammack and Smith got soaking wet and also had a close call from meeting death in the manner of the horse.

SNOW FOR THANKSGIVING.

First of the Season Falls at National Capital.

Washington, Nov. 25.—A driving snowstorm, the first of the season, set in here shortly after 9 o'clock. The flakes melted rapidly, however, and there was no especial interruption of traffic.

The more we need advice the less likely we are to appreciate the kind. The hack was saved except a grip was lost.
